Raymond, Sept. 1, 1910.
Editor of the Raymond Rustler.

Dear Sir—

I should be very glad if you would publish this letter in contradiction to the report that I had signed an affidavit purporting I had paid to Mrs. Newcomb a fee for medical attendance on my wife.

When applying for a death certificate to the coroner, Dr. Keiller, shortly after the inquest held on one of my little boys, I was told by him after a conversation of some 15 minutes that Dr. Wray would attend to me. Dr. Wray as soon as disengaged filled out the death certificate (which had been previously signed by Dr. Keiller) placed it on his bureau and stated before he could hand it to me, Dr. Keiller wished me to sign a statement that I had paid a fee of $20 to Mrs. Newcomb for medical attendance etc.

After arguing for several minutes I refused point blank to sign any statement of that kind.

This statement was not correct and would also incriminate Mrs. Newcomb and it was not until I had stated I would make legal action if I thought they could use such a threat and Dr. Keiller had been telephoned to by Dr. Wray, was the certificate handed me.

Is this the treatment we are to expect from a profession with which gentlemen are usually associated?

At that time there were at home one little boy lying dead, another expected to live only a few hours, a wife in a weak state of health, so surely there was enough trouble without having this kind of obstacle placed in the way.

I may state that during 13 years experience, entirely among the medical profession and the largest Hospital in England, I have yet known a gentleman(?) who would refuse to do such a thing as hold back a death certificate after an inquest.

It seems a great pity that although I had 15 minutes talk with Dr. Keiller previous to seeing his partner, he was not man enough to make the request himself but had Dr. Wray do it for him.

No doubt if Dr. Keiller or Wray had worked hard and proved their ability to us folks in Raymond they would soon have had things going their way and have no need to waste their valuable time on what they think opposition.

I have a letter in my possession from headquarters at Calgary to say that Dr. Wray has only to day (Sept. 1) registered, so at the time of holding enquiries about Dr. Newcomb, Dr. Keiller was himself practising with a man who was not registered, which accounts for the fact that Dr. Keiller had to sign the death certificate which was filled in by his partner.

Yours faithfully
Best Mitchell.

ENRAGED BOVINE SCARES BOATERS.

Escaping while being unloaded from a car at the Burns & Co's abattoir on Thursday afternoon, a steer jumped into the lake and caused great consternation among a number of persons in boats and caused by making wild attempts to get aboard.

GIVES CHASE

The boat, after escaping, stood on the bank of the lake for a moment and then seeing a passing boat took a dive and commenced to perform channel swimming stunts in chase of it. The boat was rowed towards Nelson by its frightened occupants and the steer decided to give up the contest. Turning his head north he made for the opposite bank and climbed ashore onto a rocky bluff.

The steer, while waving his tail and shaking his horns and generally expressing his defiant attitude to all creatures and human beings in particular, until another boat being in sight. Undaunted at his previous failure he again took to the water and this time nearly succeeded in entangling up with the light craft which seemed so overbearing to him. But the animal was doomed to failure. His clumsy strategy was no match for the four oarsmen in the boats which had been so anxious to catch. Possibly his interest had grown stale or perhaps his anger at being destined for the food of mere puny man had subsided. Anyway he swam back to shore.

ATTACKS ROSS KANCH.

This time he landed at Hugh Ross' ranch on the north side of the lake. Making a great noise there and playing havoc with the vegetables and flowers in Mr. Ross' garden, he succeeded in thoroughly scaring the women and children in the ranch house. The sport was too tame, however, for the bovine trouble-maker and with a series of dignified he walked into the lake and swam back to the abattoir.

The inevitable end of the travels of the steer came on Friday night and to day he will occupy a prominent and honored place on the dinner tables of several Nelson citizens.

The lake at the point where the best twice swam across is considerably over half a mile in width, Nelson News.

How To Make Mischief.

Keep your eyes on your neighbor. Take care of them. Do not let them see without watching. They may do something wrong if you do. To be sure you never knew them to do any thing bad, but it may be on your account they have not. Perhaps if it had not been for your kind care they might have disgraced a long time ago. Therefore do not relax any effort to keep them where they might be.

Never mind your own business that will take care of itself. There is a man passing along he is looking over the fence he is suspicious of him; perhaps he contemplates stealing some of these dark nights; there is no knowing what queer fancies he might have got into his head.

If you find any symptoms of any one passing out of the path of duty, tell every one else what you see, and be particular and see a great many. It is a good way to circulate such thing it may not benefit yourself or any one else particularly. Do keep something going—silence is a dreadful thing; though it is said there was silence in heaven for the space of half an hour do not let such a thing occur on earth should be too much for this mundane sphere.

If after all your watchful care you cannot see that they have any mischievous tendencies, then hint that they are no better than they ought to be; that you do not wonder if the people found out what they were after a while then they may not hold their heads so high. Keep it going and some one may take the hint and begin and aid it along after a while—then there will be mischief and everything will work like a charm.

Follow the above directions and you will be pretty sure to make plenty of mischief.

Just Before Election Nov. 1909

Rate Payers? Hold Big Meeting at which the "office seekers" pledge themselves, that if elected, they would among other things carry out the following ideas, "that a general increase in the assessment for 1910 be made on a basis of equality and the rate be cut as low as possible, which will make the average citizens taxes less than formerly, favoring equal rights to all and special privileges to none."

They are elected, but what do you know about the taxes? A general increase in the assessment was made, 12000 acres of land was taken for the school district without the owners consent aggregating in value about $350,000.00. But still they forget their promise to cut the rate and decrease the average man's taxes. Instead they increased the rate 3 mills, cutting this high as possible instead of "as low as possible."

Be slow to promise and quick to perform.—An average citizen.

In answer to J E's letter.

It is to be regretted that a prominent man, occupying a position of trust, upheld and sustained by the confidence of the people, would lose sight of his duty and retain should stoop to such a degree of forgetting the sacred responsibility as common "Feed your Sheep."

What can J. E. expect from one of tho' back into whose face he throws such reflections and whose he is addressing as brother? There is but one term that is suitable to the action viz. THOU HYPOCRITE.

Criticism when tempered with decency and charity is stimulating and gall has a deadening effect upon confidence and friendship.

To gain a point can we afford to make the sacrifice?

Geo. H. Budd.

Say Editor, have you ever heard the story of the Ancient City and the medicine man? If you haven't and will give me a little space in your paper, I'll tell the story. Once there was a medicine man, located at a town called S., and some reason or other, best known to the people of that town, he did not get enough to do at his profession. So he thought he would go to the Ancient City of R. (the one discovered by Goettie) just a few miles away and get the practice of both towns.

When he got to the ancient city of R. he was told he should be going out among the people, practicing the doctrine of Health, administering to the wants of the sick etc. and the medicine man seemed to get but little or nothing to do. So the medicine man gave the medicine man notice that she must quit, and gave the people notice too that he did not want them to employ her and tried to make a great stir. But things went on as if nothing had happened—no change.

So the medicine man went to his room one night, wrung his hands and cried, "what shall I do, what shall I do? That woman is getting all she can do. She goes to the grocery store and gets simple little remedies, just the thing that cures and the people will not let me prescribe for them neither will they see Guinness' Stout, and I can hardly get a dog gone job at my trade at all. I am a good medicine man I think and I don't see why they will not 'have' me. So the medicine man retires for the night but does not sleep well.

In the early hours of the morning he falls into a dream, and while passing away he dreams a dream that brings to his mind the fact that the medicine woman has at some time affixed to her signature the letters M. D. and by so doing, on his mind she has broken the law. He then bounds to his feet, out of his slumber and says, "I have got to have her go! I have got to have only a slight technical point, hanging on a very slender thread but I must take advantage of everything possible. I must not let anything slip. I must stop that woman from practicing, somehow."

So the medicine man has the medicine woman arrested but finds that she did not mean registered Doctor of Medicine by the letters M. D. as he supposed but that she meant by M. D., Many Degrees. So the people said, "It is to be hoped that the woman will be the woman will be to her signature the letters M. P. and if she does, dear medicine man, don't have her arrested, thinking she is passing as a Member of Parliament in this town, but the M. P. will mean, Much Practice. And don't play such fantastic tricks before high heaven as will make the angles weep."

Well editor, the last account I saw of the Ancient City, the medicine man, who was still sleeping and the medicine woman going on as before.

Dandruff Germs

Must Go.

In Canada the dandruff germ must go. The war of extermination has begun, and already thousands of intelligent Canadians have permanently rid themselves of this fitness.

To-day it is no more necessary for a man to have dandruff in his hair than to have rats in his teeth.

Dandruff can never be cured until the small, aggravating and uncomfortable dandruff germ is conquered and destroyed.

And millions of dandruff germs have been destroyed, thanks to the great scientist and dermatologist who gave to the world Parian Sage, the only real dandruff cure and hair grower the world has ever known.

If you have dandruff, Parian Sage will cure you in two weeks.

But besides ridding the scalp of dandruff, Parian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It is not a dye. It is a prime favorite with women of refinement. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and is not sticky or greasy.

"Chantecler"

EDMOND ROSTAND's wonderful "Chantecler" is the dramatic sensation of the world. In it Rostand proves himself to be one of the greatest dramatists of all times. "Chantecler" is not only the greatest play of the century—it is the one great play of the last hundred years. It is an exquisite story, palpitating with human sympathy and interest. It warms the blood—arouses the emotions—arouses every commendable sentiment. "Chantecler" sparkles with wit—counsels with wise philosophy—entertains with fascinating fiction—whisks the torques of the hour bell of today, and today's problems, are heard through the medium of "Chantecler's" deliciously up-to-date slang. No language contains sufficient superlatives to describe it. Only reading and study will enable you to appreciate it. It has aroused all France—London has gone mad over it.

The New English Translation

Rostand has chosen HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE as the medium through which to present "Chantecler" to the English-speaking world. The publication will be in four instalments, one act to each instalment, beginning in the June number. The translator is the same who helped to make "Cyrano de Bergerac" so fascinating to American booklovers.

We have made special arrangements with the publishers of HAMPTON'S by which our readers may get "Chantecler" and the many other fine features published in HAMPTON'S in connection with our own paper, practically without cost. Read our offer below.

OTHER EXPENSIVE FEATURES

HAMPTON'S MAGAZINE every month contains the most costly, most important, and most interesting contents ever put between the covers of a general magazine. "Perry's Own Story" of the discovery of the North Pole, a $60,000 feature, is now in its most interesting stage, giving the positive "proofs" that Commander Perry and no other man discovered the North Pole. "The True History of the Southern Pacific Railroad" by Charles Edward Russell is one of the greatest magazine serials ever published. Mrs. Rheta Childs Dorr's articles on the "Power of the Women's Clubs" are without an equal in their appeal to women everywhere. Fiction contributors include the foremost story-tellers of the world: Arthur Stringer has a new series called "The Adventures of an Insomniac"; James B. Connolly describes in several stories his Trip Around the World with the American Fleet; Frederick Palmer is contributing a series of sleuth stories of which Danbury Roid is the central character. The only new idea in detective fiction since Sherlock Holmes is provided in the second series of stories about Luther Trent, the psychological detective, written by Edwin Palmer and William G. MacLurg. Other Short Stories are by such favorites as O. Henry, Gouverneur Morris, Charles Belmont Davis, Rupert Hughes, Josephine Daskam Bacon, Harris Morton Lyon and many others.
